

I'm Zaldy De Ocampo, a community-focused COVID-19 outreach worker. My mission is to bridge the gap between the latest public health information and the people who need it most. I visit neighborhoods and participate in community events to share up-to-date information and resources on everything COVID-19.

Whether it's explaining new variants, promoting vaccination opportunities, or debunking myths, I'm here to empower my community with knowledge. I actively listen to concerns, answer questions in a friendly and informative way, and connect residents with the support they need, from testing sites to social services. My goal is to ensure everyone has access to the tools and information to stay safe and healthy during this pandemic.
